We offer only the latest techniques available, including metal and clear braces as well as custom aligners. ► NVL: How long have you been an orthodontist? What inspired you to pursue this line of work?

Dr. Ramaswamy: I have been involved in Orthodontics for over 25 years and still have a great passion for my work. Following my older brother who had migrated to New York from India, I arrived in the 80s to pursue the American dream. Growing up in the 8th most populated city in the world (Mumbai) helped me prepare for the chaos of New York City. I started from the bottom to get where I am today. Starting as a laboratory technician, I eventually earned my dental degree at NYU and my orthodontic credentials at Fairleigh Dickinson University. I had a mentor named Stan Morris, DMD. He was an Orthodontist who took me under his wing after I met him in school. I used to make all of the appliances for him in his office while going through school. I am forever grateful for his wisdom.

► NVL: What is the philosophy behind your practice?

Dr. Ramaswamy: Some Orthodontists tend to overthink a case and make it more difficult than it has to be. Others make it look easy. We can use a tennis analogy with orthodontics, particularly in comparison to the effortless style of Roger Federer; Federer makes it look so easy. His motions are so smooth. He loves the game. I would probably say that I like orthodontics because it comes fairly easy to me. I don't find it tedious or difficult, but instead find it rewarding when I am able to truly help my patients achieve amazing results.

► NVL: What is your biggest inspiration in life or in your job? What do you enjoy most about your work?

Dr. Ramaswamy: I find fulfillment in providing high-quality care and ensuring that my patients feel comfortable and confident during their treatment. I am committed to staying up to date on the latest advancements in Orthodontics and continuously improving my skills to provide the best possible care for my patients. My dedication to my work is evident in the positive feedback I receive from my patients, who appreciate my expertise, compassion, and attention to detail. I take great pride in helping my patients.

We're excited to see how they'll contribute to the community's oral health and well-being in the coming years.
